

Prof. Andrew West

Boston University

Andrew West is an assistant professor in the Department of Astronomy at Boston University. His major research interests center around M- and L-type dwarf stars (the smallest, yet most numerous stars in the Milky Way). He is interested in what we can learn about their internal structure and generation of magnetic fields, as well as how we can use them to understand the structure and evolution of the Galaxy.